Dear President Biden, Vice President Harris, House and Senate Leadership,

As 842 faith leaders and 148 faith organizations of diverse faith traditions, we come to you with urgency, knowing that the COVID-19 crisis has profoundly impacted already marginalized groups in society including Black, Latino, indigenous, immigrant, and refugee communities.

We respectfully request that you include a pathway to citizenship for essential immigrant workers, farmworkers, people with DACA, TPS, and DED, and their families in the upcoming recovery packages you have prioritized through reconciliation. An inclusive legislative proposal on immigration relief, which recognizes the dignity of all, is long overdue. Our immigrant family members and neighbors who are integral parts of this nation deserve the protection and opportunity of a clear path to citizenship. Any package should recall the worth and dignity conferred by our Creator, and not exclude or discriminate against anyone based on interactions with our nation's racist criminal justice system. Instead, we're hopeful that a package maximizes eligibility for relief, stabilizing the workforce, ensuring that families stay together, and our communities can thrive.

Essential workers have faced the most significant risks amid the pandemic. And we know that countless immigrant members of our congregations, places of worship, and communities have worked throughout the pandemic as essential workers, providing the basic goods and critical services which have helped us all make it through this terrible season.

And yet, we as a people have treated our immigrant "essential" workers as expendable, as exploitable - extracting their labor while disregarding their humanity. We have excluded them from full citizenship and denied them the full fruits of their contributions to our economy and community life.

Six million immigrant workers in our communities are at the frontlines of keeping us all healthy and fed during the COVID-19 pandemic. While making up only 17% of about 156 million working people, immigrants are disproportionately represented in COVID-19 front line occupations and essential industries, including being childcare workers, healthcare workers, custodial staff, school employees, and farmworkers, to name a few examples.

Essential immigrant workers have been, and will continue to be, key to our communities' health and prosperity during the healing of our nation from the pandemic and looking at the future. Immigrants, including 131,000 people with TPS and 200,000 people with DACA, are serving on the frontlines—despite their families and communities receiving little or no relief themselves.

One important step we can take in the coming weeks is to recognize undocumented immigrants who are essential workers and their families for the gifts they bring into their communities, their resiliency, and their contributions to our society with a roadmap to citizenship. We must not exclude some people from relief, keep them in limbo, or punish them twice for having prior contact with a racist and biased criminal legal system.

After years of attacks on our communities, the Trump administration's immigration policies, and a year at the frontlines of the COVID-19 pandemic, the Biden Administration and Congress can and must secure a pathway to citizenship for essential immigrant workers, farmworkers, people with DACA, TPS, and DED, and their families immediately as part of any recovery package being passed in reconciliation.

In doing so, we can take a step toward the state of "right relationship" we seek with our Creator, our neighbors, and all of creation.

Sincerely,
